BIO

Toured in six countries and three continents. Viewed over 1.4 million times on YouTube. Nominated for a Dove Award. Rotated nationally on UPtv, TBN and the MTV circuit. Music placement in a made-for-TV film. Appeared in network television and feature film.

International recording artist T-Ran Gilbert is known for shifting the atmosphere of whatever platform he has been given. With performances in the U.S. and abroad, T-Ran Gilbert is an ambassador of a new era in Pop/R&B/Christian music.

Based in Nashville, T-Ran Gilbert has shared stages with many national artists: Shania Twain, Monica, Stephen Curtis Chapman, Chris Tomlin, Kirk Franklin and Kool & The Gang, to name a few. The boy who started out singing on the kitchen table at the age of three, has grown into a full-time master of his craft as a singer/songwriter, musician, producer and Evangelist.

Never forgetting his struggles as a youth, he has taken his life-affirming message to the streets...

His original song, "Need You Now," is featured prominently in the 2015 TV One movie, For The Love of Ruth. He has also appeared in two episodes of the ABC primetime drama, Nashville.

T-Ran Gilbert is currently captivating audiences with songs from his Live And Not Die EP while headlining the annual, promotional Live And Not Die (L.A.N.D.)

Tour, presented by 22Visionz Entertainment. Meanwhile, in the studio, he's putting finishing touches on his game-changing follow-up Album, The Imprint.

Never forgetting his struggles as a youth, he has taken his life-affirming message to the streets and even teamed up with Dr. Arun Gundhi, grandson of Mahatma Gandhi, for a "Season of Non-Violence Tour." T-Ran Gilbert's positive message and music is penetrating lives around the globe—and he has only just begun!
